A summary of Rice County's emergency responsibility assignments, by function, is shown on the above chart. Heads of the various county government departments and public agencies will be responsible for carrying out the assignments shown on this chart. Additional information about these emergency responsibility assignments are contained in the annexes to this basic plan.

Responsibilities have been assigned by a code letter: "P", "S", or "C".

"P" - indicates primary operational responsibility, which means that the official or agency is in charge of, and responsible to make provision for, that function.

"S" - indicates support responsibility, which means that the agency so assigned will, if possible, assist the official or agency that has primary or coordination responsibility for that function.

"C" - indicates coordination responsibility, and is assigned when several agencies have a partial responsibility, but no one official/agency has obvious primary responsibility. This will often-times be the situation when non-government agencies are involved.

As a general rule, county officials will be primarily responsible for carrying out emergency functions outside city limits, and municipal officials will have the corresponding responsibility within city limits.
